

SAY WHAT?

SEPTEMBER 2004

John Kerry penned an op-ed piece in the Wall Street Journal this past month and said this...

“I would promote private-sector innovation policies, including the elimination of capital gains for long-term investments in small business start-ups.”

How does a start-up have long-term capital gains?
If anyone can make sense out of this statement, please let me know.

